

Advanced imaging

The purpose of imaging is to create a visual representation of the information being studied. The imagery is based on different physical phenomena studied in this course. The contents will range from the interaction between waves and living matter to how an image can be created from this interaction as a function of the different types of waves (photonics, X-ray imaging, acoustic imaging, nuclear imaging, MRI).

From:

<https://wiki.centrale-med.fr/msct-cse/> -

Permanent link:

<https://wiki.centrale-med.fr/msct-cse/adim>

Last update: 2020/01/29 22:06

